NABARD ASSISTANT MANAGER EXAM

ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Directions (51 - 65) : Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it. Certain words/phrases have been printed in bold to help you locate them while answering some of the question.

Organic farming is either really expensive or really cheap, depending on where you live and whether or not you are certified. Not only are the "natural" pesticides and fertilizers increasingly marketed by agribusiness as costly as or costlier than their chemical counterparts, but proving you are an organic farmer requires certification, which is time-consuming and expensive. In the USA, converting to organic agriculture is a huge undertaking for commercial farmers, who have relied on chemical fertilizers and pesticides for many decades, but in India, the conversion is no less arduous and far more ironic.

India's farmers are still mostly practising organic methods, passed down for millennia. Organic fertilizer and natural pest control are the only tools available to most of these farmers, who have always lacked the financial resources to explore chemical solutions. But these farmers, whose produce is as organic as they come, cannot afford to pay the fees required to gain official certification.

As the international community adopts standards for organic agriculture, the challenges faced by farmers in the USA versus farmers in India in order to adapt are very different indeed. The danger is that the wellintentioned global move towards organic standards will make small organic farmers in countries like India, who have never done anything but organic farming, no longer able to sell their crops.

In response to the $26 billion global market for organic foods, the Indian Central Government set up a National Institute of Organic Farming in October 2003. The purpose of this institute is to formulate rules, regulations and certification of organic farm products in conformity with international standards. The institute has its offices across the country and has appointed certifying agencies for organic farm products for the domestic market. The certifying agencies are accountable for confirming that any product sold with the new "India Organic" logo is in accordance with international criteria, and launch major awareness and marketing campaigns, in India and abroad.

Organic farming has been identified as a major thrust area of the 10th plan of the central government. one billion rupees have been allocated to the aforementioned National Institute of Organic Farming alone for the 10th five-year plan. Despite this, most of India's organic farms are not officially considered organic. Most of India's farms are "organic by default." The irony and difficulty of the new governmental push for organic agriculture is that 65% of the country's cropped area is "organic by default," according to a study. By this somewhat degrading term they mean that small farmers, located mostly in the Eastern and North-Eastern regions of the country, have no choice except to farm without chemical fertilizers or pesticides. Though this is true in many cases, it is also true that a significant number of them have chosen to farm organically, as their forefathers have done for thousands of years. Many have seen for themselves the effects of chemical farming - soil erosion and loss of soil nutrients, loss of nutrition in food, and human diseases resulting from the chemicals that inevitably seep into the water table, all the reasons for the urgent demand for organic foods and farming.

India currently has only 1,426 certified organic farms. This statistical discrepancy reveals that the weak link in the organic/economic chain is certification. Under current government policy, it takes four years for a farm to be certified as organic. The cost of preparing the report is a flat fee of Rs. 5,000 and the certificate itself costs another Rs. 5,000. While these costs are bearable for the new industrial organic greenhouses, they are equal to or more than an entire year's income for the average small farmer, if the costs of travel and inspection are included.

In the United States an organic farm plan or organic handling plan must be submitted to a USDA accredited private or state certification program. The plan must explain all current growing and handling methods, and any materials that will be used – in the present, and any future plans must be included as well. Records for the last five years must be presented. Land must be chemical-free for three years prior to harvest, so a conventional farmer cannot receive the organic label for the transitional years. This will generally mean a decrease in income - crops may be less plentiful than with conventional fertilizers and pesticides, and yet the higher price for organic products won't yet be possible. Many farmers cannot afford the transition, even if they want to.

One solution to the small farmer's dilemma of how to both certify and survive is that of community certification. In community certification, communities, on a non-profit basis, take charge of the certification process themselves. They evaluate the farmer's commitment to the stewardship of the soil, and examine from many angles whether the food is being grown in an environmentally sensitive way or not, rather than technical standards. While community certification may be a viable solution on the local level, it is our opinion that, in the global marketplace, less than exact technical standards will never be enough for today's consumer- and, in today's largely poisoned environment, it shouldn't be, either. Furthermore, much "soft" guidelines can easily backfire on the farmers themselves, as a system not based on facts must be by definition subject to local politics, bribery, favouritism, etc.

India must find a way to keep the strict international organic standards intact if it wants to compete in the international market for organic foods- but is there a way to do it without leaving small farmers out in the cold? One obvious solution is for the government to subsidize these certification fees enough to make it a viable option for ordinary farmers, not just for neo-organic factory farms and greenhouses. Banks also could provide a more level playing field for small farmers. Currently, almost bank loans are for pure crop farmers. While many of these big-business farmers use harmful chemicals and processes, small farmers fertilizing their soil with recycled organic wastes are usually ineligible for insurance, much less state subsidies.

- 51. What role does the National Institute of Organic Farming have to play in the organic farming area?
  - (1) To set standards for the import of material required for organic farming within India

Conclusions:

- I. No bus is a train.
- II. Some jeeps are scooters.

Directions (176 – 180) : In each question below a statement is given followed by two courses of action numbered I and II. A course of action is a practicable and feasible step or administrative decision to be taken for follow-up, improvement, or further action in regard to the problem, policy etc. On the basis of the information given in the statement, you have to assume everything in the statement to be true, and decide which of the suggested courses of action logically follow(s) for pursuing.

Give answer (1) if only I follows. Give answer (2) if only II follows. Give answer (3) if either I or II follows.

Give answer (4) if neither I nor II follows.

Give answer (5) if both I and II follow.

176. Statement : According to latest statistics, number of rhinos killed by tigers was much more than the number of rhinos killed by poachers in a wildlife sanctuary.

Courses of action :

- I. Stricter regulations should be framed in order to punish the poachers.
- II. As done in some sanctuaries, the areas where tigers hunt and the areas with dominant rhino population should be artificially separated.
- 177. Statement : A mid-air collision was narrowly avoided when pilot of one of the aircrafts neglected the air traffic controller's instructions.

Courses of action :

- I. Pilots of both of the aircrafts should be immediately reprimanded by revoking their licenses.
- II. The training of air traffic controllers should be improved and made more comprehensive in order to avoid such incidents in future.
- 178. Statement : Oil spill from the oil carrier of one of the biggest oil companies has severely affected the marine life in a large area near the gulf region.

Courses of action :

- I. The oil company should be penalised for the negligence and the harm caused to the environment.
- II. Efforts should be made to shift as many marine animals in the area as possible to safer habitats.
- 179. Statement : Many private schools have been reportedly denying admission to students from poor families while preferring those with sound financial background regardless of their merit.

Courses of action :

- I. Poor students should be encouraged to take admissions only in Government run schools where such discrimination does not exist.
- II. The government should enforce a certain percentage of seats for students from poor families in every school.

180. Statement : The number of malaria cases has been rising significantly in the city since the last few months.

Courses of action :

- I. The municipal authorities should take immediate steps to destroy the breeding places of mosquitoes and improve hygiene in the area.
- II. A campaign to educate people about the ways to prevent the disease should be started using local media and social workers.

Directions (181–185) : In each question below is given a statement followed by two assumptions numbered I and II. An assumption is something supposed or taken for granted. You have to consider the statement and the following assumptions and decide which of the assumptions is implicit in the statement.

Give answer (1) if only Assumption I is implicit.

Give answer (2) if only Assumption II is implicit.

Give answer (3) if either Assumption I or Assumption II is implicit.

Give answer (4) if neither Assumption I nor Assumption II is implicit.

Give answer (5) if both Assumptions I and II are implicit.

181. Statement : A leading university has begun a practice of displaying results only on the internet rather than the main notice boards.

Assumptions :

- All the students enrolled with the university have access to internet at home.
- II. Most of the students referred to the results displayed on both the internet as well as the notice boards earlier.
- 182. Statement : In order to replenish the nutrients in the soil, it is important to grow different types of crops every alternate season.

Assumptions:

- I. A crop can never be grown for the second time in the same field.
- II. If a different crop is grown in the successive season, no additional nutrients such as fertilizers are required to be added to the soil.

183. Statement : If farmers want to improve their yield, they must use organic fertilizers in place of chemical fertilizers.

Assumptions:

- I. Chemical fertilizers have certain ill effects on health.
- II. Chemical fertilizers do not produce as much yield as the organic fertilizers.
- 184. Statements : Store eatables in the deep freeze in order to preserve these for a long time. Assumptions:
  - I. Food material remains eatable even after deep freezing for a long time.
  - II. It is not possible to store any eatable at room temperature even for a shorter period of time.
- 185. Statements : A leading NGO decided to open a library containing books and newspapers of all major publishers in a remote village.
